BIO

Graduated in Audiovisual Communication in Madrid and with higher studies in Cinema in France, she has worked as a script and assistant director for more than 20 years in different television series before telling her own stories.

After following several screenwriting training courses and a Master Degree in Screenwriting at the Carlos III University of Madrid, she works at the production company D.L.O. as a junior screenwriter for the development of several television series projects. At the same time, she writes several scripts for advertising and short films. After this first professional stage, she takes advantage of her experience filming to create her first projects.

She presented several ideas to different networks and platforms until, in 2018, Atresmedia Studios (now Buendía) offered her her first development contract with a series: 'El Valle', an emotional thriller of lesbian love, in the process of being co-produced with France.

In 2020, she created another new series project for the international production company Federation Entertainment: 'Rat Mothers', a punk-pop comedy that addresses the issue of women in the new century.

In 2022, she co-rewrites with Emma Bertrán the script for the feature film 'El Cargamento' for FILMADORA PRODUCCIONES and VIDEOCINE (Mexico), currently in pre-production for shooting. And finally, this same 2022, the comedy series 'White Lies', of which she is co-creator, begins filming for EL DESEO and VIS, Paramount international studio. Elena Anaya, Hugo Silva, Pilar Castro and Quim Gutiérrez make up the leading quartet, with Félix Sabroso and Marta Font as directors. The premiere will take place soon on Paramount +.
